As families deal with loved ones who are aging or disabled, daily life can become a challenge to manage on one’s own. Increasingly more adults are faced with the difficult decision of moving their aging loved ones to assisted living facilities or keeping them at home where they often prefer to stay. For those who choose the latter, 66% struggle to provide care and have had to make some type of adjustment to their worklife1—some giving up work entirely.

Our CareLinx Homecare Portal is an immediate benefit that you can take advantage of to ensure your loved ones receive proper homecare, eliminating stress and helping to live happier, longer lives. This nationwide online marketplace will help you easily find and hire professional caregivers to provide as much—or as little—help as you need at a price point you can afford.

Beneficiary Companion
Handling the affairs of a deceased loved one can be an emotionally painful and time-consuming process. The average survivor has to contact at least 12-15 entities immediately after a loved one passes. At a time of loss, the last thing survivors want to do is make phone calls and handle paperwork. To help beneficiaries manage the process, and to protect their loved one’s life legacy, they need assistance.

This service provides beneficiaries peace of mind and 24/7 support with handling their loved one’s affairs. We will take care of the administrative details involved in closing a loved one’s life legacy, including their social media accounts, relieving you of the stress of paperwork and allowing you to focus on the healing process. We also provide guidance on how to protect your loved one’s identity, as well as resolution assistance in the event of identity theft of the deceased.
